Erasmus+ Programme
of the European Union

The Erasmus+ International Credit Mobility (MIC) program was created by the European Commission in 2015 and aims to promote international exchanges with higher education institutions outside Europe. In 2020, the MIC Tunisia and the MIC Russia project of the Cnam has been selected. Thanks to Erasmus+ grants, more than 20 students come from Tunisia to follow Master program courses and study at different research laboratories of the Cnam in Paris. Here are some of their testimonials.

The overal experience is amazing. Paris is like a new world to me. In six months, I think I have met people from all over the world, from different countries, from different cultures. With my friends, I get to learn new things and learn to be independent. Without this program, I would not meet all these wonderful people. The classes are taught in English, which helps me a lot to improve my English. I have the opportunity to practice what I have learned in the projects, which is very helpful.

Erasmus+ Mobility Program: A Life-Changing Experience

Hattay Anas
Erasmus+ Mobility Program Participant

As a participant in the Erasmus+ Mobility Program, I had the opportunity to travel from my home country to Paris, France, to pursue my academic and personal goals. I cannot overstate how much this experience has impacted me and broadened my horizons.

One of the highlights of the program was the cultural exchange that I had with people from different parts of the world. The program provided me with an opportunity to meet people from various countries, learn about their cultures, and exchange ideas with them.

In addition, the program organized various cultural activities and visits to museums and cultural centers, which allowed me to learn about the rich history and art of Paris. These activities not only provided me with an opportunity to explore the city but also gave me a chance to bond with my fellow program participants and make new friends.

One of the things that impressed me the most about the Erasmus+ program was the emphasis on academic growth. I had the opportunity to attend lectures and seminars at the Conservatoire national des arts et métiers (CNAM), which helped me expand my knowledge and learn from world-class experts.
